CLAIMS OF THE RESPECTIVE ASPIRANTS

Being Considered by Commissioner Macfarland, Who Has Immediate Charge of the Office—Right of J. F. Mockabee to Withdraw a Bid.

The next important appointment to be made by the District Government is that of Coroner for the term of three years, beginning August 16. Commissioner Macfarland, who has immediate charge of the Office of Coroner, is now considering the claims of respective candidates for the position, with a view of coming to a decision in regard to the one whom he will nominate before the Board of Appointment.

Dr. William P. Carr, the present Coroner, made it known some time ago that he would not be a candidate for reappointment, and that fact largely accounts for the considerable number of physicians who have made application for the place, either directly or through their friends. Dr. Carr has held the office one term, but it is said that his duties have interfered too much with a lucrative practice which he had built up, and for that reason he could not afford to hold office under the District Government. Dr. Carr is now absent from the city on leave, and the work of the office is being carried on by the Assistant Coroner, Dr. L. N. Glazebrook. The salary of the office is $1,800 per annum.

Dr. Glazebrook is a candidate for the position of Coroner, and feels that he ought to be appointed in recognition of his past services as Assistant Coroner, which position he has capably filled ever since the office of Coroner was created in 1895. Dr. Glazebrook claims that he is thoroughly familiar with the duties of the position, much more so, in fact, than a new man could be. In his view of the matter the office cannot be filled by a man who has not scientific attainments, and who has not some knowledge of the peculiar duties of the office who have applied for the position. His experience has been that a new man is obliged to spend the greater part of a year in familiarizing himself with the duties of the office. Dr. Glazebrook also believes that promotion is a principle which ought to be recognized in the public service. Aside from his being in the position of Assistant Coroner, Dr. Glazebrook has many recommendations and some solid backing for the appointment.

Dr. William C. Fowler, an employee of the Health Department, is another candidate for the office. Dr. Fowler has probably the best backing for the place of any of the candidates. He is a member of both houses of Congress, among the best physicians of the District, and among the best citizens of Washington. It is said that Dr. Fowler wants the position, and that he has worked hard to secure it, and that he has been assisted by some of the best people of the city. It is said that Dr. Fowler is well fitted for the position both by his personality and his attainments. Dr. Fowler was educated here, and has had the information is correct, his eye for a long time of the Coroner's office.

Dr. J. R. Nevitt, now serving a term as police and fire surgeon, is another strong candidate for the position. He has been in the position of police and fire surgeon for many years, and has been very successful in his duties. He is a member of the Board of Health, and has been very active in his duties. He is a man of high character, and has been very successful in his duties. He is a man of high character, and has been very successful in his duties.

Dr. William L. Robbins is a prominent candidate for the office of Coroner. It is said that the testimonials in his favor which have reached the Commissioners are many and strong. Outside of the District, Dr. Robbins is well known, and he is possibly in the lead so far as requirements for the position and solid backing are concerned. It is understood that his candidacy is looked up with favor by at least one of the Commissioners. It is believed by those who think they have a right to the appointment that Dr. Robbins stands the best chance of being the successful candidate.

could not be recalled for an alleged mistake made by the bidder. This seemed to be the rule of the law as laid down in the text-books and supported by authorities.

"Upon further examination of the question I am satisfied that the law is otherwise. The Supreme Court of the United States has recently had occasion to examine the question in the case of the Moffett, Hodgkins, and Clarke Company against the City of Rochester, not yet reported, but an advance copy of the opinion has been furnished me by the Clerk of the Court. In that case, by mistake of the engineer, the complainant bid 50 cents a cubic yard for earth excavation in open trenches when it intended to bid 70 cents, and $150 for earth excavation in tunnel when it intended to bid $15. The proof of the mistakes was clear and undisputed, and the error was called to the attention of the executive board when the bid was opened and before the city authorities had done anything to alter its condition.

"The Supreme Court said: 'The rule between individuals is that until a proposal is accepted it may be withdrawn, and if pending case, on account of the charter of the city, there is certainly nothing in the charter which forbids or excuses the extinction of the necessary elements of a contract.' The court held that the transaction had not reached the degree of a contract, proposal and acceptance, and quoted with approval the following language of the Circuit Court:

"The bill proceeds upon the theory that the bid upon which the defendant acted was not a contract, but a mere proposal. In other words, that the proposal was not a contract, but a mere proposal.
